Police Recruit Selection Process
Handout and Study Guide

THE POLICE RECRUIT SELECTION PROCESS

Police Recruit Selection Process

The selection process for Police Recruit is a multi-stage process. On the morning that you report to begin your exam, this multi-stage process will be reviewed. The following is a description of each stage of the process:

A. WRITTEN MULTIPLE CHOICE EXAM

The first step in the selection process is the written multiple choice exam. The multiple choice exam covers the following knowledge, skills, and abilities:

1. Written Communication
2. Form Completion
3. Knowledge of Grammar, Spelling, and Punctuation
4. Oral Comprehension
5. Reading Comprehension
6. Observation Ability
7. Memory
8. Inductive Reasoning
9. Deductive Reasoning
10. Exercising Judgment
11. Social Judgment/Interpersonal Skills
12. Selective Attention
13. Perceptual Accuracy
14. Recognizing Transformed Objects or Persons.

Each of these knowledge, skills, and abilities are necessary to perform the job of a Police Officer. For example, Written Communication, Form Completion, and Knowledge of Grammar, Spelling, and Punctuation are all necessary for the extensive amount of paperwork and reports that officers must complete on their jobs. Reading Comprehension and Oral Comprehension are necessary to successfully complete the training that recruits receive at the academy. Social Judgment and Interpersonal Skills are necessary for dealing with the public. You will see examples of some of these types of questions on the practice exam contained in this packet.

SCORING

For this exam you will mark your answers on a separate answer sheet which will be scanned and scored by a computer on site. After this exam, you will take a break and then return to the testing site. At that time you will find out if you passed the exam. If you receive a passing score on the written multiple choice exam, you will take the writing exercise.

B. WRITING EXERCISE

Those who pass the written multiple choice exam will take the writing exercise. For the writing exercise you will take notes while you watch two videos of police-related incidents. You will then use your notes to write a narrative report describing the incidents. The instructions for the writing exercise are provided in this packet so that you can become familiar with this step of the selection process. You should review rules for grammar, spelling, capitalization, and other components of writing.

These reports will be scored at a later time by a team of trained raters.

C. PHYSICAL AGILITY TEST

The test consists of the following events:

- Sit-ups - 14 repetitions in one minute.
- Push-ups - 10 repetitions (untimed).
- 1 ½ mile run – 19 minutes and 50 seconds.
- 300 meter run - completed in a maximum of two minutes.

D. BACKGROUND INVESTIGATION

Applicants who pass the physical agility test will be notified by the New Orleans Police Department to be scheduled for a background investigation.

The background investigation includes the following:

- | | |
|---------------------------|------------------------------|
| 1. Polygraph test | 6. Employment record check |
| 2. Written interview form | 7. Credit record check |
| 3. Oral taped interview | 8. NCIC check |
| 4. Fingerprinting | 9. Reference check, and more |
| 5. Urinalysis | |

Male applicants between the ages of 20 and 27 must present their draft card.

E. PSYCHOLOGICAL & MEDICAL EXAMS

Applicants who pass the background investigation will be scheduled to take a medical examination and three multiple choice personality tests, the MMPI II, PDS, and the CPI.

If the applicant's background investigation is acceptable, these written psychological tests along with a completed personal history form and the background investigation report will be evaluated by a psychologist to determine whether the applicant is suitable for police work. If the psychologist determines that additional information is needed, the applicant will be scheduled for an interview with a psychiatrist for further evaluation.

Assuming satisfactory completion of the background investigation, the medical exam will then be evaluated. This is to determine whether the applicant is in good physical condition to perform the essential functions of the job. These essential functions include:

- a) Patrolling a specified beat or district by walking, by motorcycle or by car;
- b) Operating a car;
- c) Pursuing and apprehending fleeing suspects, i.e., running after suspects, jumping ditches, climbing through windows, climbing fences/walls, and running several blocks;
- (d) Escorting prisoners.

The medical exam will include a physical examination, a lumbar-spine X-ray, a chest X-ray, and possibly a pulmonary function test and an EKG stress test.

F. CERTIFICATION

Finally, after you have passed all of these stages, you will be certified for possible hiring by the Police Department. Your acceptance as a police recruit is not guaranteed. The final decision is left to the Police Department.

Exam Taking and Preparation Strategies

The Police Recruit written multiple choice exam is not intended to be one you have to study for. Your education and personal experiences have prepared you for being a Police Officer. Yet, if you prepare yourself for the exam, you will be:

-  more familiar with the testing process
-  more familiar with the types of questions on the exam
-  less nervous
-  and more likely to do your best !

Try these tips. You will do better on the exam.

1. Complete the practice exam. Look at its format and the different types of questions. Work on the areas in which you are weak with additional practice.

 Test Preparation aids for police officer tests are available in bookstores and at the library.

2. Be at your best and be well rested the day of the exam. Be on time. Allow yourself sufficient time to arrive and find the exam site.

3. When reading or listening to passages, comprehend the meaning and main ideas.

 Practice this tip by reading the below passage and answering the question which follows.

The three major components of the Louisiana Criminal Justice system are the police, the courts, and the corrections agencies. In Louisiana, the police consist of the state police departments, the sheriff's departments, and the municipal police. Included in the court system are the State Supreme Court, the Appellate Courts, the District Court, and the Municipal Courts. Included in the corrections system are the Louisiana Department of Corrections as well as the parish jails.

Which of the following best describes the topic of this paragraph?

- A. police departments in Louisiana
- B. jailing criminals in Louisiana
- C. the parts of the Louisiana Criminal Justice System
- D. the major parts of the court system in Louisiana

Answer C is the correct answer because it includes all of the subjects in the passage. Answers A, B, and D each deal with specific subjects within the passage.

4. Read each exam question completely and carefully.

☞ Examine what each question asks and what the possible answers convey. Look for key words such as: always, best, except, generally, sometimes, not, or usually. Eliminating incorrect answers can aid in finding the correct answer.

5. After carefully reading each question and its possible answers, decide and do one of the following:

☞ If you know the answer, mark it on the separate answer sheet.

☞ If you are fairly sure of the answer but would like to give it further thought, mark your answer on the answer sheet and make a note on scratch paper. If time permits, go back and review the question and answer.

☞ If you do not know the answer, guess.

6. Choose the answer that is generally best.

☞ Each question on the written multiple choice exam is provided with four or five possible answers. For each question, you must decide which is the best answer. The best answer is the one that is most appropriate under ordinary conditions. It is the answer that most people would consider correct.

☞ Example

In reading this booklet, it is most important that a person:

- A. read it more than once.
- B. understand what he/she reads.
- C. read slowly.

Probably, some people will read this booklet slowly, and some may benefit from reading it more than once. However, what is most important is that a person understands what he/she reads in this booklet. Therefore, choice B is the best answer.

7. Do not fear questions which test your ability to read, understand, and use what you have read.

- ☞ When reading passages are long and complicated, remember to look for the main idea and the information needed to answer the question.
- ☞ Here's another question dealing with the passage about the Louisiana Criminal Justice System:

The three major components of the Louisiana Criminal Justice system are the police, the courts, and the corrections agencies. In Louisiana, the police consist of the state police departments, the sheriff's departments, and the municipal police. Included in the court system are the State Supreme Court, the Appellate Courts, the District Court, and the Municipal Courts. Included in the corrections system are the Louisiana Department of Corrections as well as the parish jails.

Which of the following are components of the corrections system in Louisiana?

- A. the State Supreme Court and the parish jail
- B. the police departments and Louisiana Department of Corrections
- C. the Appellate and Municipal Courts
- D. Louisiana Department of Corrections and the parish jails

The correct answer is D. Most people would not be able to answer this question without reading the passage. However, the question is relatively simple if one reads the passage.

8. Do not fear questions which ask what a Police Officer should do in a particular situation.

- ☞ Such questions do not require knowledge of Police Department rules but logical reasoning and judgment.

☞ Example

A Police Officer is walking a beat. Which of the following should he/she attend to first?

- A. The officer observes a group of youths talking in an alleyway.
- B. A citizen informs the officer that a poker game is taking place a block away.
- C. The officer observes two men knock down an elderly woman and take her purse.

The correct answer is C. A is not correct because it is not illegal or a threat to person. B is not correct because it is illegal, but is not a threat to person as is C. Also, C is more immediate.

9. Do not leave any questions unanswered.

- ☞ There is no penalty for guessing. Narrowing down the possible answers to the two most likely answers increases your chance of guessing correctly.

10. Limit the changing of your answers.

- ☞ Most often when test answers are changed, the original answer selected was the correct response. Choose your answers based on facts given in the question. Remember to read the whole question, look for the main idea, and select the best answer.

11. When listening to passages or police related incidents, take notes carefully and efficiently.

- ☞ Concentrate only on the most essential elements.

12. Use your time efficiently.

- ☞ Do not spend too much time on any one question.
- ☞ Quickly review each section of the exam before answering its questions to know how many questions you have to complete within the allotted time.
- ☞ Eliminate possible answers which you know are wrong and direct your full attention to those answers which are potentially correct.

13. Mark your answers carefully

- ☞ When taking the written multiple choice exam, you will mark your answers on a separate answer sheet. For each question, you are to carefully darken the circled letter on the answer sheet which corresponds to the letter of the answer you think is best.

Example

1. Which month has the fewest days?

- A. January
- B. February
- C. September
- D. November

1. A B C D
 [] ☒ [] []

Answer “B” is the best, and space B has been darkened.

During the actual exam, check your work often to make sure you are at the right place on the answer sheet. When changing an answer, completely erase the incorrect response before darkening the correct response.

YOU MAY NOT WRITE IN THE TEST BOOKLET.

PRACTICE EXAM: SECTION 2

ASSOCIATED MEMORY ITEMS

For this portion of the test you will be shown wanted bulletins which include a face, name, crime, and other descriptive information. You will have 45 seconds to look at each bulletin and take notes. Several bulletins will be shown. You will use your notes and memory of the faces on the bulletins to identify the correct individual from drawings of a group of suspects on the exam. Questions might involve the suspect's name, crime, or other information.

VERBAL MEMORY ITEMS

For this section of the exam you will listen to an audiotape of a brief description of an incident. You will not be able to take notes while listening to the tape. After listening to the tape, you will answer questions about the incident based on the information you remember.

SELECTIVE ATTENTION

This section of the exam requires you to listen to an audiotape of a simulated radio dispatch and to review a written report at the same time. You will assume the role of a officer in a certain police car and must listen to information pertaining only to that police car. You may take notes on the information on the tape and in the report. Following this, you will use your notes to answer questions about the written report and any information that pertains to the police car for which you were assigned.

ORAL COMPREHENSION

For this section of the exam you will listen to an audiotape of a short lecture on a police-related topic. During this lecture you are encouraged to take notes. After the tape is finished, you will use your notes to answer questions about the information on the tape.

OBSERVATION ABILITY

This section of the exam requires you to examine photographs and answer questions based on the photographs.

READING COMPREHENSION

Answer questions 5 and 6 on page 18 after carefully reading the information below. You may refer back to this material if you wish.

I. SEARCH OF VEHICLES

A. Stopping Cars

1. The Police must have reason to stop a car. Although stopping a car is a very limited invasion of the driver's right to privacy, the Police Officer may not lawfully make even this limited invasion of the driver's privacy unless he or she has a reason.
2. Courts have held that if an Officer stops a car for absolutely no reason, a technical arrest has occurred. Thus, any incriminating evidence discovered by the Officer after stopping the car would not be allowable in court. Therefore, the first rule regarding vehicles is:

You must have a reason to stop a car.

II. VEHICLES ARE "EMERGENCIES"

- A. The Supreme Court has specifically declared that the great mobility of motor vehicles makes them, in certain situations, Police emergencies. The courts have recognized that when confronted with a problem concerning an automobile, Police must act immediately or not at all. The Officer who is investigating someone in a car rarely gets a second chance. The Officer's time is limited and the decisions are final. Consequently, investigations focusing on people in mobile cars are extreme situations where Police judgments must come quickly.

III. SEARCHING VEHICLES WITHOUT A WARRANT

- A. Even though the mobile motor vehicle is viewed in certain situations by the courts as a Police emergency, the law is that searches of vehicles without warrants may be made only when Police have probable cause to believe that someone in the car has committed a crime, or that the vehicle contains contraband or the fruits of a crime. Only when the Police have probable cause to make the search, may they make a search of a motor vehicle and then the search should be made immediately.

5. The first rule for Police Officers in regard to stopping vehicles is:
- A. vehicles are "emergencies."
 - B. you must have a reason to stop a car.
 - C. the Officer investigating someone in a car rarely gets a second chance.
 - D. stopping a car is a very limited invasion of the driver's right to privacy.
6. Searches of vehicles without warrants may be made by Police only when they have probable cause to believe that:
- A. someone in the car has committed a crime.
 - B. the vehicle contains contraband.
 - C. the vehicle contains the fruits of a crime.
 - D. Any of the above.

EXERCISING JUDGMENT

A Police Officer is walking a beat. Which of the following situations should he/she respond to first? (Note: The word "respond" means to attend to personally).

7.

- A. A woman is in the middle of a busy street fixing her flat tire.
- B. A fender-bender has occurred on the side of a nearby street corner.
- C. A car is going down the road without a muffler or license plate.

- A. A 2-year old child is standing near the deep end of a crowded public pool with no supervision.
- B. A woman is running from a teenager who is carrying a knife.
- C. A man is pouring a container of waste oil into a sewerage drain.

Writing Exercise

The instructions for the writing exercise are provided for you ahead of time so that you can become more familiar with the format of the exercise. Reading through these instructions will let you know what to expect. We recommend that you brush up on your writing skills prior to the testing session

POLICE RECRUIT Writing Exercise Instructions

Police Officers must be able to accurately record the details of the incidents to which they respond. They must also be able to write a clear, thorough, and organized report of the incident, describing exactly what happened. This writing exercise will require you to listen to a recording of an incident, take detailed notes of what occurred, and write a report of the incident.

In a moment you will be listening to two incidents. Each incident depicts an officer responding to a situation and collecting information from the individuals involved. You are to assume the role of the officer's partner. While your partner interviews the victims, you must also take notes so that you can later write a report of the incident.

You will hear each incident only ONCE, thus it is important that you listen closely and make detailed notes. After each incident, you will be given 20 minutes to write a report based on the information in your notes. This report MUST include each of the five basic elements of a report that are relevant to the incident. The five basic elements of a report are: who, what, where, when, and why.

1. Who Was Involved -- Identify all persons directly involved in the incident in as much detail as possible.
2. What Happened -- State what happened and who did what to whom, including what was said or done by those involved and a complete description of any materials involved.
3. When It Happened -- Tell the time and date of the incident.
4. Where It Happened -- Identify where the incident took place.
5. Why It Happened -- Explain what caused the incident, if there is a cause.

Note: Sometimes one or more of the five elements will not be relevant or available to include in reports. This is often true with the "why" element.

In addition, your report should include only the FACTS. Do not include your opinions or assumptions. These facts and details should be written in complete sentences, in narrative form. Finally, your report must be written or printed legibly on the paper provided. If the people scoring your report cannot read what you have written, you will not be given the benefit of the doubt that your information is correct. If you print in all upper case letters, be sure that your punctuation and capitalization are clearly identifiable. For example, you might underline letters that should be capitalized to distinguish them from your other capital letters.

You will receive paper and pencil to prepare and write your report. When writing your report, if more paper is needed, raise your hand to notify the test proctor. The final report must be written or printed on the "Writing Exercise Form." If you use the scrap paper to organize your thoughts, keep in mind that there may not be enough time to write the complete report on the scrap paper and to copy it onto the "Writing Exercise Form." IT IS ESSENTIAL THAT YOU ALLOW YOURSELF ENOUGH TIME TO WRITE THE FINAL REPORT ON THE "WRITING EXERCISE FORM." You will be given a warning when five minutes and one minute remain. Also, you must be certain to put your name and social security number on both of the Writing Exercise Forms.

SCORING PROCEDURES

Your report will be scored based on the following two factors:

1. CONTENT

The report must be accurate in the description of the five elements that make up the incident. All applicable elements must be included in complete detail. The report must also be accurate in the description of the statements made by the witnesses.

2. WRITING STYLE AND MECHANICS

The information should be included in the report in the order in which it occurred. Correct words should be used. Correct spelling, capitalization, punctuation, grammar, and logical sentence and paragraph structures should also be used.

Summary of Instructions

For each video:

1. Remember that you are the officer's partner.
2. Remember that the tape will be played only ONCE.
3. Listen to the incident carefully and take DETAILED notes while your partner is interviewing the victim(s). Remember that you are interested in details related to the five basic elements: who, what, when, where, and why.
4. Take notes with the scrap paper and pencils provided.
5. Refer to your notes to write a report of the incident. This report must include the five basic elements: who, what, when, where, and why. You will be given 20 minutes to write your report. We recommend that you first organize your thoughts on the scrap paper provided before writing your report on the "Writing Exercise Form." If you decide to organize your report first, remember to ALLOW YOURSELF ENOUGH TIME TO WRITE THE FINAL REPORT ON THE "WRITING EXERCISE FORM."
6. Be sure to print or write the report on the "Writing Exercise Form." If you print in all uppercase letters, be sure to make your capitalization and punctuation clear.
7. Raise your hand to notify a test monitor if you need any additional paper.
8. Put your name and social security number at the top of your final report on the "Writing Exercise Form."

An example of a well written report and a list of errors that would have caused the report to be scored lower is provided on the next page.

Sample Report

On September 27, 2011, Ms. Joan Blanchard parked her car in the CBD Parking Garage at 3:00 p.m. Ms. Blanchard, who lives at 2638 Memphis Avenue in New Orleans, discovered that two items were missing from the car when she returned at 5:00 p.m. Ms. Blanchard stated that she left the windows of her maroon, 2007, two-door, Nissan Sentra cracked. The items taken from the car were a camera, valued at $200, and a Samsung cell phone, valued at $150.

The following are examples of mistakes that would lower the score of the above report:

1. Ms. Blanchard lives at 2636 Memphis Avenue. (incorrect address)
2. The items were stolen at 3:00 p.m. (incorrect time, this is when the car was parked)
3. The items taken from the car was a camera and a cell phone.
(incorrect verb tense)
4. A samsung cell phone was stolen from the car. (Samsung is a proper noun and should be capitalized)
5. Ms. Blanchard's car was broken into on September 27 2011. (comma missing between 27 and 2011)
6. Ms. Blanchard craked the windows of her car. (cracked is misspelled)

In addition, the report would receive a lower score if the information was not presented in a logical order (i.e., chronologically or with similar items grouped together).
